

Ingleside Appoints Veteran Senior Living Financial Management Executive as New CFO

Myers Named to Position for Comprehensive, Washington Area Not-for-Profit Senior Living Organization

Washington, D.C. – Ingleside, a premier provider of comprehensive senior living services in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, has named Timothy L. Myers as its new chief financial officer (CFO). Myers has nearly three decades of industry-relevant experience.

Myers comes to Ingleside after having served eight years as CFO for the Philadelphia-based Kendal Corporation.

Prior to Kendal, he spent nearly 10 years as CFO, chief operating officer, and partner for New Life Management and Development of Mount Laurel, N.J. Earlier in his career, he worked a year as director of special projects with Marriott Senior Living Services, and 10 years as a senior manager for KPMG.

“Tim is a highly regarded and talented professional who has extensive financial management experience within the senior living industry with a special focus on continuing care retirement communities,” said Ingleside President and CEO Lynn O’Connor. “We are delighted to welcome him aboard and know that he will be a pivotal addition to our executive team as we embark on an exciting period of growth that will include the upcoming expansions of two communities – Ingleside at Rock Creek in Washington, D.C. and Ingleside at King Farm in Rockville, Md.”

Myers holds a BA in Accounting from Lycoming College in Williamsport, Pa. He is a member of the Financial Advisory Panel of the Commission on Accreditation for Rehabilitation Facilities – Continuing Care Accreditation Commission (CARF-CCAC). He is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants (PICPA).

For more information on Ingleside, its affiliate organizations and its three continuing care retirement communities in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia, please visit www.inglesideonline.org. Follow our new Facebook page here.